1.0 FROM THE ARCHIVES

- Interview with AKENZUA S.I.A. (Omo N’Oba N’Edo Erediauwa) (1940)

Had I gone to King’s College (My father’s Old School), I might have grown up to be quite lazy and to abhor any form of manual work, or “using my hand” as father had put it. I realized that even before I finished from Ibadan, I already had a feeling of happiness within myself that I schooled in Ibadan and not Lagos; and I was grateful to father who chose for me, GCI over his Alma Mater - King’s College, Lagos."

Many more insights are contained in the interview with Erediauwa, the late Oba of Benin.

- Criminal Legislations and the Prosecution of Corruption Cases in Nigeria: Prospects and Pitfalls (By Olanrewaju Onadeko (Grier, 1966); a Paper delivered at the 2016 Annual Luncheon of GCIOPA-Lagos Branch.)

Suppose it is alleged that a Governor, in the course of driving his personal car, recklessly ran over a man, killing him; he sends the car to a workshop for the repairs of the dented or damaged part or parts. Or that he used a pistol to shoot a man dead and threw the gun into a nearby bush. Or that he stole public money and kept it in a particular bank or used it to acquire property. Now, if the police became aware, could it be suggested in an open and democratic society like ours that they would be .

- Field House blues (Abe and the locker)

. . . I felt cheated and unfairly treated and I moaned and lamented over this cheating for days until my parents eventually came for the visiting day....on that day, I broke down in tears lamenting about how my human rights had been violated...lol....my parents, were horrified and asked me to call the senior which I did.....Abe came to them and . . .

- Thank You, Chief J.B.O. Ojo, Our Dear Principal!

. . . It was him who alerted my dad regarding the interview, which gave birth to my set. Up till now, the letter inviting me for the said interview has not surfaced, more than forty-five (45) years after. It may interest you that I was a motor mechanic apprentice at some point in my life, even though I had always wanted to be a medical doctor. But, along the way, . . .

- GCIOBA-1986 Set Rewards GCI Teachers

There is an old saying that has now become a cliché which says that teachers' rewards are in heaven but in Government College Ibadan, the rewards of its teachers are verily before them in their lines of duty. The 1986 Set of Government College Ibadan has taken the bull by the horns by ensuring that the determined, dedicated and smart working teachers of GCI are duly . . .
